VOLUME 1 ISSUE 1
April 2023

Since 1992, Stress Awareness Month is observed with the intention of increasing knowledge about the impact of stress in our lives. During the month of April, Stress Awareness Month is recognized as the time to spread awareness, but also to increase knowledge on how to better manage or prevent it from affecting your physical and mental well-being.

April is recognized as National Stress Awareness Month to bring attention to the negative impact of stress. Managing stress is an essential component of a healthy lifestyle. Knowing how to manage stress can improve mental and physical well-being as well as minimize exacerbation of health-related issues.

It's critical to recognize what stress and anxiety look like, take steps to build resilience, and know where to go for help. Also, take some time to visit the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) website and familiarize yourself with strategies for stress management. Friend Health and HRDI also offers several resources that can assist managers and employees in dealing with stress and anxiety, including the Employee Assistance Program (EAP) through MetLife. EAP focuses on confidential counseling and enhancing and maintaining the well-being of all employees.

Please contact Kenisha Kimble, HR Generalist if you need further assistance.
